A man once went on a trip to the west coast of Africa. It was very hot weather. He put his bags into his room at the hotel and ran down to the sea to have a swim. But when he looked into the water, it seemed to him that something was moving there, and he was frightened. There was nobody near except a boy and the man called him. "Are there any crocodiles here?" he asked. "No, Sir, no crocodiles," the boy answered. The man took off his clothes, jumped into the water and swam for a few minutes. But though the water was warm and the weather was nice, he was still a little frightened. That boy said, "There was no crocodile," but it's possible he doesn't know," he thought, and he decided to swim back. When he came out of the water, the boy was still there, and the man asked him, "Why are you so sure that there are no crocodiles here?". "Yes, I'm sure," the boy answered. "Crocodiles are coward. They never come here, because they are afraid of the sharks!"
